Imagine...

It's a cold, wet morning in January. Inside, the courts are full. A lively doubles match between retirees from Sussex is taking place on one court, a teenager playing with her father is on another, a wheelchair tennis player hitting balls with his able-bodied friend are on the court next to them, Cardio Tennis classes are underway on a couple of the other courts, and a group of children from the Crescent Valley Resource Centre and the Regional Y are learning and playing tennis on the remaining courts.

To make it happen we need your support.

The funding campaign is underway.

Construction begins in 2023.

In 2018, more than 6.5 million Canadians hit the courts.

2.3 million Canadians play tennis at least once a week during the tennis season.

Tennis is a top 3 sport among new Canadians.
